IMPARTIAL, NOT NEUTRAL.

SHANGHAI, SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 5, 1864.

WE this day publish a copy of general regulations for the guidance of American Consular courts in China, issued by H.E. the Hon. Anson Burlingame. The American community in this country is fortunate in possessing a Minister whose minute acquaintance with legal forms renders his decrees peculiarly practical and perspicuous. When the United States first sent men to form settlements in China, little was known of the mode in which the administration of law should be modified in order to meet the requirements of residents in a foreign land. In China, citizens of the States found themselves under a new régime, and had no very clear conception of the form of government under which they were living. Various questions were unsettled, and many abuses no doubt resulted from the uncertainty which prevailed. In this particular the English settlers in China were in a more favorable position. The mother country possessing no extensive tracts of territory which would afford occupation to the superfluous population and open a new field for the energies of its adventurous spirits, had early been compelled to legislate for its subjects scattered through many and distant lands, and was therefore in a position at once to grapple with whatever difficulties might present themselves. The Consular system under the English government was, consequently, at an early period more elaborated than was the American code. Whatever difficulties may have existed are, however, now done away with, and the course of legal procedure is laid down with minute accuracy in both civil and criminal cases. This is the more valuable, as, in the majority of cases, American Consuls at the different ports have been placed in their positions without any previous training in the Consular service, and are therefore very likely to find themselves suddenly plunged into serious difficulties A career as a merchant or as a missionary no doubt possesses some advantages which, under the English system, are occasionally lost, but the minute acquaintance with the requirements of trade which will mark the one, and the knowledge of the Chinese character which the other may charitably be supposed to possess, do not always compensate for a want of acquaintance with judicial forms, and ignorance of the first principles of law. Where there exists no regularly constituted Consular service, such accidents as those to which we have just alluded may occasionally occur, and for this reason the sooner a service of the kind is established the better will it be for American interests. Meanwhile the very stringent regulations laid down by the American Minister render it impossible that any one, however dense, should seriously misunderstand them. Together with "The Consul's Manual" these Rules form a Vade mecum quite sufficient for the guidance of the Consular Courts. The new Regulations of course add nothing to the jurisdiction of the Courts. Whatever changes have been made are in the form rather than in the matter of legal proceedings, and the Consular powers, therefore, remain in statu quo. Jurisdiction in civil cases is in one particular more extended than under the English code, namely, in the power vested in the Consul to pronounce divorces. Whether this be an advantage or not, we will not pretend to decide. It is, at any rate, satisfactory to reflect that in the case of American citizens, marriage can be dissolved without the delay which attends divorce proceedings between English husbands and wives. In criminal cases the Consuls have, subject to the minister, the power of awarding capital punishment and a far more extended power of imprisonment than is enjoyed by the English Consul. This is, to a certain extent, rendered necessary by the absence of any institution to correspond with the Supreme Court of Hongkong, and has often proved very valuable as a means of summarily fulfilling the ends of justice. We should be sorry to see any change made in this particular, but the foreign community, in common with ourselves, would gladly welcome the investiture of the English Consuls with an increased measure of power. Whether this be or be not done, it is at least an advantage that one section of the rowdy community can be visited with the full penalty of its crimes. The Regulations which we this day publish, by rendering legal proceedings more regular, will tend to increase the practical efficacy of a Consul's power by preventing any informalities which might otherwise creep into Court proceedings.

THE following are the telegrams received by latest advices vid California :—

WASHINGTON. War Department, September 4th.—Sherman's official report of the capture of Atlanta has just been received, dated 26 miles off Atlanta, yesterday morning, but had been detained by the breaking of the telegraph lines, as already reported. Our army withdrew from about Atlanta on the 30th, and made a break on the East Point Road and reached a good position from which to strike the Macon road. Howard was on the right, near Jonesboro. Schofield on the left, near Rough and Ready. Howard found the enemy in force at Jonesboro and entrenched his troops within half a mile of the railroad.

The enemy attacked him at 3 P.M. and was easily repulsed, leaving his dead and wounded. On finding a strong opposition on that road, I advanced left and centre rapidly to the rear (road?) made good lodgement and broke all the way from Rough and Ready down to Howard's left rear, at Jonesboro. By the same movement we interposed the whole army between Atlanta and that part of the enemy entrenched in and around Jonesboro. At first we made a general attack on the army at Jonesboro, the 14th corps, General Jeff C. Davis, carrying works, with 10 guns and about 1,000 prisoners. The army retreated south. We have followed him to his hastily constructed lines near Lovejoy's Station. Hood finding me on the only road that could supply him, and between him and a considerable part of his army, blew up the magazine in Atlanta and left. On the night of the 30th the corps of Slocum took possession of the city, so that Atlanta is ours, fairly won. Since the 6th of May we have been in one constant battle or skirmish, and we need rest. Our losses will not exceed 12,000. (We presume this means since the commencement of the campaign).—We have over 3,000 rebel dead and wounded, and over 1,500 prisoners.

(Signed) SHERMAN.

A later dispatch from Slocum, dated the night of September 3rd, at Atlanta, says: The enemy destroyed seven locomotives and eighty-one cars loaded with ammunition, small arms and stores: left fourteen pieces of artillery, mostly uninjured, and a large number of small arms. Deserters are constantly coming into our lines.

SHANGHAI AUTUMN REGATTA.

(Tuesday & Wednesday, Nov. 1st and 2nd.)

Tuesday was the first day of the autumn races given by the Shanghai rowing club. The afternoon was all that could be desired, clear without any glare of sun. A large number of visitors were on the ground in the neighborhood of the starting post, where tents had been erected, and tables laid out for refreshment. The land of the 67th Regiment was in attendance on both days, and filled up the intervals between the races by playing various popular airs. Several ladies were present at both the starting and winning posts.

The first race for Man-of-war dingies was contested by two boats from the Hardy and Cockchafer respectively. The distance, one mile, was done by the Hardy's boat in twelve minutes, the Cockchafer being completely out of time. The sculling race which followed immediately was well run by Messrs. Major, Cope and Low, the former, however, had it nearly his own way from the first, and came in an easy winner, followed closely by Blue and White, and, at a respectful distance, by Red and White. The time was eight minutes, but as the pullers were evidently reserving themselves for the subsequent races, this must not be taken as a criterion of the speed that might have been attained. The Hong Race between Tung Foo and E Ho had been anxiously looked forward to, as both crews were known to be in excellent training, the advantage, if any, lying with E Ho. At the start the E Ho boat accidentally fouled its rival, and thus caused some little delay. This was quickly remedied and the mile was done gallantly in seven minutes, it remaining an open question for at least five as to which would bear away the cup. About five hundred yards from the winning post, however, Tung Foo put on a spurt which carried her in about eight boats' length ahead of E Ho. The pulling in this race was the best of the day, and did great credit to the crews. The double sculling race which followed the hong struggle, was easily won in five minutes and a half by Messrs. Stout and Hale. Messrs. Major and Cope might have been more fortunate, but for an unlucky crab or two caught while rounding an awkward corner in the course. As it was, the palm undoubtedly fell to Blue and White, Pink showing nowhere, although the oars in the second boat are by no means to be despised. Way, however, for the jolly tars, defenders of their country, especially jolly on this particular occasion. Again appear the Hardy and Cockchafer in friendly rivalry, and again does victory sit on the oars of the Hardys. About three hundred yards from the starting post the Coxswain of the Cockchafer crew, either through accident or design, passed under the stern of the Hardy boat in order to get the inside of the curve at passing the point. But, alas for human foresthought, his plans were badly laid, and he only escaped going astern by darting again into the centre of the stream, and losing far more than he could have gained had his manœuvre been successful. However, the Cockchafer won the second prize, as well it might, for two prizes were offered while only two boats appeared to contest them. Last came the General Club Race, in which shone most of Shanghai's most redoubtable oarsmen. The start was excellent, but the Swallow, true to its name, dashed well forward, leaving, as was only in accordance with rowing precedent, the Coxswain astern. The latter, driven on by the Pinks, of course left its Driver behind, giving up the cap, and it is to be supposed its contents, to the Swallow.

On Wednesday the weather was again favorable, the air cool and bracing, and a cloudy sky prevented any glare from the sun. The sides of the creek were lined by native and foreign spectators, and the neighborhood of the tents was occupied by a large number of ladies. So many outside races were put in, that the evening was quite dusk before the Scratch Race came off. Indeed the Programme was hardly adhered to in any instance, and as a consequence, bystanders were often at a loss as to what race they were witnessing. The first race was between Opium-ship six-oared gigs. For it there were three entries—viz., the Emily Jane, Ariel and Wellington boats. It was well contested by the two former, the Emily Jane finally winning by about four feet, Ariel second, and Wellington out of time. The mile was done within seven minutes. This was, to our mind, the best race of the day. It was followed by a walk over the course on the part of the Mermaid's four-oared gig for a prize of twenty five dollars offered to Merchant-ship boats. For the Man-of-war boat race, which came third on the list, there were but two entries—the first and second cutters of H. M. S. Rattler. The gallant crews worked with a will, and contested the prize closely, getting over the ground in nine minutes and a half, the heavy eight oars spinning along like whenies. The first prize fell to the first cutter, which came in about four lengths ahead of No. 2. After one or two unimportant contests, the race of the day, for the Challenge Cup, came off. The crews were in excellent training, and promised well. Where each exerted itself so well and skilfully it would be invidious to particularise. Light Blue, however, bore away the palm, leaving Mr. Hayes's colors some distance in the rear. Palmam qui meruit ferat, we bow to the fiats of the case, and wish the Blue and White more luck when next they invoke the fickle goddess. The Ariel boat came in a winner in the next race, for Merchant ships' crews, and the Mermaids, tying their strength against a Chinese crew in the seventh race, won an easy victory. For the Scratch Match five crews were extemporised, but many of the spectators had left the ground before the start.

The following were the colors:—

Red & Blue	Blue & White	Red & White.
1. J. J. Wheelock	1 Wood	1 Hall.
2. M. Heard	2 Ashley	2 Major.
3. J. Lodian	3 Lloyd	3 Lowe.
Stroke R. C. Anstruther.	Stroke Hayes.	Stroke Whittall.
	White.	Blue.
	1 Seaman	1 Reid.
	2 T. Wheelock	2 Geary.
	3 Johnston Smith	3 Cope.
Stroke Maitland		Stroke Stout.

The boats were in the above order, Red & Blue on the extreme Shanghai side, Blue on the Hong-que side. An excellent start was effected, except that Red & Blue was a little too close to the shore. White and Red & White took the lead, closely followed by Blue. White shortly afterwards improved its position, which it maintained until it arrived at the tents; Blue and Red & White here put on a spurt which brought the three boats level. Blue & White also picked up considerably, and Red & Blue, although still behind, in consequence of its bad position at the start, was working away most pluckily. The position of the boats continued very much the same until within a quarter mile of the winning post, when Blue, putting on a second spurt, drew ahead and won by one length. A gallant contest for second place between the other boats resulted in favor of Red & White by half a length. For third place, a dead heat between White and Blue & White, while Red & Blue were close up at the finish, thus ending the most exciting contest during the Regatta.

The two days of the Races passed very pleasantly on the whole. Shanghai could hardly send a crew to meet a crack club in the old countries, but the pulling was in many cases such as to satisfy the most fastidious.

THE AUTOGRAPHIC DEPOSITION OF CHUNG-WANG, THE FAITHFUL KING, AT HIS TRIAL AFTER THE CAPTURE OF NANKING.

A dispatch arriving from the Commander of the forces at Sau-lin to say that the place was closely beleaguered, I was ordered to proceed with a force of cavalry and infantry to its relief, but before I had reached Wu-wei-chow, the San-ho troops had been defeated and Loo-chiang had fallen. As soon as Chang-kuo-liang's troops had recovered from their defeat they attacked and captured Chu-jung and at once moved on to Chinkiang and laid siege to that place. When they had captured it, they went on to Nanking and invested it. This occurred in the 8th year (1858). This was a period of great difficulty, the Yi-wang had taken all the troops away with him, Yang-foo-ching was at Fo-kien, Wei-chih-lun had taken refuge in Lin-chuan, Lin-shan-chang had been degraded and dismissed for losses sustained at Hsiang-t'an. Lin-ch'i-ying was shut in at Kiukiang, Huang-wen-chin was at Hookow, likewise besieged. Chang-chao-chiao and Chên-tê-tsai were also at Hookow, without troops. Chên-yu-chêng (though prosperous was still in a minor position. He was then near the Little Orphan in the neighbourhood of Hua-yang-chên. The capital was in a great state of ferment, and the only ministers were Mêng-tê-ên and Li-k'ui-fa, both men without ability, and who were, moreover, kept in hand by the Ngan and Foo Princes [1]. When Ho and Chang invested Nanking, the city was fortunately well supplied with necessaries, nay, indeed, there was even an overplus of everything. Although the garrison was not, numerous, still there was no dearth of food, and each man was ready to make an obstinate defence. Chang-kuo-liang's men were natives of Kwangsi and excellent troops, still they were not equal to General Tseng's men. Kuang troops are unquestionably hardy but are not united in spirit. There were several thousand Manchoo cavalry that assisted in the siege, but they not being so formidable as Hoonan troops, no apprehensions were felt during this siege of 1858 and 1859. Ho and Chang were drawing their supplies from Fo-kien, Kuang-tung, Soochow, Hangchow and Kiangsi. We only possessed Nganking, Wu-wei-chow, Chu-sien, Wu-hu and the strong positions of the East and West Pillars, with Hochow for our commissariat station, and the communication with the capital through Kiang-poo and Pu-kou only partially interrupted.

Although General Tê (sing-a ?) had destroyed [the works on the] western P'oo, still the road above Ho-chow was still intact. Meantime, Nanking was being closely invested by the three generals, Ho-chun, Chang-kuo-liang and Tê, but, being amply supplied in everything, was maintaining an obstinate resistance. Its preservation was, moreover, owing to the steps taken. My cousin was selected for the post of my previous command, and took up a strong position at Huang-chih and Wan-chih. I was entrusted with the general direction of affairs and at this period enjoyed the confidence of the chief. The military orders were exceedingly strict, and none dare disobey them, on the contrary, all readily submitted to any proposal of mine. The North and East gates were already invested, and the South gate was on the point of being so. This state of affairs being unsatisfactory, and there being no general outside who could be ordered to come to one's relief, we were obliged to hold a council of war, when I expressed a wish to leave the city and return with troops to its rescue. All were intents at this proposal, and entreated me not to go, the Tien-wang likewise was averse to my leaving. A few days after this I beat the gong and drum at the palace gate to announce that I had something to communicate. I was compelled to resort to this course from the desperate state of affairs that was more than apparent. Having beaten the gong, the chief mounted his throne, and I, in as complete a manner as possible, represented the state of affairs to him, and told him that the dynasty ought not (then) to come to an end, as the conquest was still incomplete. He became privy to the force of my words, and acceded to my request, so, on the following day, I handed over the affairs to the charge of Mêng-tê-ên, afterwards the Tsau-wang, Lin-shuo-chang, afterwards the Chang-wang, who had been previously summoned home and put in a prominent position) and Li-chun-fa, and requested the Tien-wang to prevent any interference in the government from his two brothers. When I had arranged everything satisfactorily I took my leave of the chief, and departing by the South gate, in 24 hours reached Wu-hu, where I had a consultation with my cousin Li-shih-tien, and we came to the conclusion that one should work his way on the South bank and the other on the North bank of the river.

The bravery of the Imperialists seemed to be increasing, and we were apparently surrounded on every side. Our men were getting dispirited, and there was no outlet for escape. This being the first time I had undertaken such a heavy responsibility, coupled with my unacquaintance with affairs, led me to proceed with great recklessness, but this course eventually turned out for good, for my careless proceedings succeeded, and my stupid movements proved correct and the means of preserving the kingdom up to the present time. When Wei-chih-tsun and Chên-yü-ch'êng entered Kuo-shih and Shang-ch'êng, the Tien-wang was going to punish the former person, but I interposed and obtained promotion for him, and he joined the forces of Ch'ên-yu-chêng. Ch'ên-yu-chêng then endeavored to make a raid into Tê-an in order to obtain reinforcements of men and horses, but he was unexpectedly hindered by Providence from effecting his object. Being defeated near Lo-t'ien and Ma-chêng he was obliged to return and take up a stand at the Chien-shan (hills) on the T'ai-hoo (lake) The period to which I am now referring was the 6th month of the 8th year (1858).

Ch'ên-yu-chêng was a long way off, Li-shih-sien was holding a place on the south shore, and I was left in a hopeless condition at Wu-hu. I had then under me 5,000 good men. With those I crossed the river, part of them going direct over from Wu-hu and the other part crossing from the East to the West pillar, the place of rendezvous being the Han hill. The only officers I had were Ch'ên-k'un-shu, Hsiao-chao-shêng, Wu-ting-ts'ai and Ch'ên-ping-wên. We had no soldier assembled at the Han hills than Hoochow fell, and twenty Imperialist stockades were thrown up there. We had no other plan than to storm Chao-kuan and make our way to Hoo-chow. We first assaulted the Imperialists at Ho-lin-yeo [at that station] and finally destroyed the twenty stockades at Hoochow, General Tê, though coming with all speed to the relief, was just too late. I then proceeded with my men to attack Ch'uen-chiao, Ch'u-chow, Lai-ngan and other places, my object being to cut in two the strength of General Tê. Though I partially accomplished this I had no troops I could use and only got as far as Lai-ngan. Shêng-pao then attacked me with hi-cavalry, gained seve al victories and finally compelled me to retire (from Lai-ngan) on Ch'u-chow. Tois place I handed over to Li-chao-show,* one of my officers who had always received the greatest kindness from me. An amount of displeasure was caused by this apparent unfairness, and my officers were very dissatisfied Li-chao-show's troops were a disorderly lot, they were constantly troubling the people and plundering any city that was taken †; and when this could not be effected they vented their rage on the people themselves. Li-chao-show‡ was in the habit of chastising the commanders of the places round, until he was ashamed to meet me and finally sent in his submission to the Imperialists. The fact is that I never censured him even half a word, when under me, either for committing ravages or falling out with my other officers, nor did I reprove him for giving up Ch'u-chow, but, on the contrary, by receiving the Tien-wang, I got his wife out of Nanking and sent her to him.

* Commonly known as Li-ch'ang-show and afterwards as Li-shih-ching. He was Lieutenant General and had his head-quarters at Ch'u-chow. He seemed to be a very sharp man when I saw him, had immense influence and power and was generally feared. He is one among the very few who had managed to play his cards well, that is, who have rebelled and managed to desert to the Imperialists at the right time.—Tr.]

† The Chang-wang is pretty correct in what he says here, for Li-ch'ang-show's men were a disorderly lot of the worst class.—[Tr.]

‡ Li-ch'ang-show ruled with absolute power, and executed people for the least offence. I was told at Ch'uchow that his cook was summarily decapitated one day for a slight defect in his cooking.—[Tr.]

REGULATIONS

FOR THE CONSULAR COURTS OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA IN CHINA.

IN pursuance of Sec. 5th of the Act of Congress, approved June 22nd 1860, entitled "An Act to carry into effect certain provisions in the treaties between the United States, China, Japan, Siam, Persia, and other countries, giving certain judicial powers to Ministers and Consuls, or other functionaries of the United States in those countries, or for other purposes," I, ANSON BURLINGAME, Minister Plenipotentiary and Envoy Extraordinary of the United States to the Empire of China, do hereby decree the following rules and regulations for the guidance of the Consular Courts in China.

I.—ORDINARY CIVIL PROCEEDING.

1. How commenced.—Civil proceedings between American citizens must commence by written petition verified by oath before the Consul.

2. Three classes of action.—Ordinary personal civil actions are of three classes, viz: Contract, comprising all cases of contract or debt; Wrong, when damages are claimed for a wrong; Replevin, when possession of a specific article is claimed.

3. Demand necessary in contract and replevin.—In contract, the petition must aver that payment, or a performance of the conditions of the contract, has been demanded and withheld; and, in replevin, that the articles to be replevied have been demanded.

4. Petitioner must deposit money.—The petitioner shall be required to deposit a reasonable sum to defray the probable expenses of court and defendant's costs; subsequent deposits may be required if found necessary.

5. Notice to Defendant.—Upon deposit of the money, the Consul shall order notice on the petition, in writing, directing defendant to appear before the court at a given day and hour to file his written answer on oath.

6. Service.—Notice must be served on each defendant at least five days before return day, by delivery of an attested copy of the petition and order, and of any accompanying account or paper.

7. Personal service should always be required when practicable.

8. Default.—On proof of due notice, judgment by default shall be procured against any defendant failing to appear and file his answer as required; but the default may be taken off for good cause within one day after, exclusive of Sunday.

9. Damages.—But in actions of wrong, and all others where the damages are in their nature unliquidated and indefinite, so that they cannot be calculated with precision from the statement of the petition, the amount of the judgment shall be ascertained by evidence, notwithstanding the default.

10. Answer.—If defendant appears and answers, the Consul, having both parties before him, shall, before proceeding further, encourage a settlement by mutual agreement, or by submission of the case to referees agreed on by the parties, a majority of whom shall decide it.

11. Amendments.—Parties should, at the trial, be confined as closely as may be to the averments and denials of the statement and answer, which shall not be altered after filing except by leave granted in open court.

12. America witnesses compelled to attend.—On application of either party and advance of the fees, the Consul shall compel the attendance of any witness within his jurisdiction before himself, referee, or commissioners.

13. Parties are witnesses.—Each party is entitled, and may be required to testify.

14. Decrees to be obeyed.—Judgment may be given summarily against either party failing to obey any order or decree of the Consul.

15. Attachment and arrest.—For sufficient cause and on sufficient security, the Consul, on filing a petition, may grant a process of attachment of any defendant's property to a sufficient amount, or of arrest of any defendant not a married woman, nor in the service of the United States under commission from the President.

16. Dissolution of attachment.—Defendant may at any time have the attachment dissolved by depositing such sum, or giving such security, as the Consul may require.

17. Sale of perishable property.—Perishable property, or such as is liable to serious depreciation under attachment, may, on petition of either party, be sold by the Consul's order, and the proceeds deposited in the consulate.

18. Release of debtor.—Any defendant arrested or imprisoned on civil petition shall be released on tender of a sufficient bond, deposit of a sufficient sum, or assignment of sufficient property.

19. Debtor's disclosure.—Any person under civil arrest or imprisonment may have his creditor cited before the Consul to hear a disclosure of the prisoner's affairs under oath, and to question thereon; and if the Consul shall be satisfied of its truth and thoroughness, and of the honesty of the debtor's conduct towards the creditor, he shall for ever discharge him from arrest upon that debt; provided that the prisoner shall offer to transfer and secure to his creditor the property disclosed, or sufficient to pay the debt, at the Consul's valuation.

20. Debtor's board.—The creditor must advance to the jailer his fees and payment for his prisoner's board until the ensuing Monday, and afterwards weekly, or the debtor will be discharged from imprisonment and future arrest.

21. Execution.—On the second day after judgment, (exclusive of Sunday) execution may issue, enforcing the same with interest at 12 per cent. a year against the property and person of the debtor, returnable in thirty days, and renewable.

22. Seizure and sale of property.—Sufficient property to satisfy the execution and all expenses may be seized and sold at public auction by the officer, after due notice.

23. Property attached on petition, and not advertised for sale within ten days after final judgment, shall be returned to the defendant.

24. Final judgment for defendant.—When final judgment is given in favor of defendant, his person and property are at once freed from imprisonment or attachment, and all security given by him discharged. And the Consul may, at his discretion, award him compensation for any damage necessarily and directly sustained by reason of such attachment, arrest, or imprisonment.

25. Offset.—In actions of contract, defendant may offset petitioner's claim by any contract claim, filing his own claim, under oath, with his answer. Petitioner shall be notified to file his answer seasonably, on oath, and the two claims shall then be tried together, and but one judgment given for the difference, if any be proved in favor of either party, otherwise for defendant's costs.

26. Costs.—Except as hereinafter provided, the party finally prevailing recovers costs to be taxed by him and revised by the Consul.

27. Trustee process.—In contract, the Consul may order defendant's property or credits in a third party's hands to be attached on the petition, by serving him with due notice as trustee, provided petitioner secures trustee his costs by adequate special deposit.

28. Trustee's costs.—If adjudged trustee, the third party may retain his costs from the amount for which he is adjudged trustee, if sufficient; otherwise the balance of trustee's costs must be paid out of petitioner's special deposit, as must the whole of his costs if not adjudged trustee.

29. Demand on trustee upon execution.—The amount for which a trustee is charged must be inserted in the execution, and demanded of him by the officer within ten days after judgment, or all claim on him ceases. Process against property or person of the trustee may issue ten days after demand.

30. Debt must be at least ten dollars.—If petitioner recovers judgment for less than ten dollars, or if less than ten dollars of defendant's property or credits is proved in the third party's hands, in either case the third party must be discharged with costs against petitioner.

31. Replevin.—Before granting a writ of replevin, the Consul shall require petitioner to file a sufficient bond, with two responsible sureties, for double the value of the property to be replevied, one an American citizen, or petitioner may deposit the required amount.

II.—TENDER, &c.

32. Before a creditor files his petition in contract, his debtor may make an absolute and unconditional offer of the amount he considers due, by tendering the money in the sight of the creditor or his legal representative.

33. Deposit.—If not accepted, the debtor shall, at his own risk and paying the charges, deposit the money with the Consul, who shall receipt to him and notify the creditor.

34. Demand or withdrawal.—It shall be paid to the creditor at any time, if demanded, unless previously withdrawn by the depositor.

35. Costs.—If the depositor does not withdraw his deposit, and, upon trial, is not adjudged to have owed petitioner at the time of the tender more than its amount, he shall recover all his costs.

36. Offer to be defaulted.—At any stage of a suit in contract or wrong, defendant may file an offer to be defaulted for a specific sum and the costs up to that time; and if petitioner chooses to proceed to trial, and does not recover more than the sum offered and interest, he shall pay all defendant's costs arising after the offer, execution issuing for the balance only.

III.—REFERENCE.

37. When parties agree to a reference they shall immediately file a rule, and the case be marked "referred;" a commission shall then issue to the referees, with a copy of all papers filed in the case.

38. Award and acceptance.—The referees shall report their award to the Consul, who shall accept the same, and give judgment, and issue execution thereon, unless satisfied of fraud, perjury, corruption, or gross error in the proceedings.

39. When transmitted to Minister.—In cases involving more than five hundred dollars, if his acceptance is withheld, the Consul shall at once transmit the whole case, with a brief statement of his reasons, and the evidence therefor, to the Minister, who shall give judgment on the award, or grant a new trial before the Consul.

IV.—APPEAL.

40. Must be within one day.—Appeals must be claimed before three o'clock in the afternoon of the day after judgment (excluding Sunday); but in civil cases, only upon sufficient security.

41. To be perfected within five days.—Within five days after judgment, the appellant must set forth his reasons by petition filed with the Consul, which shall be transmitted as soon as may be to the Minister, with a copy of docket entries and of all papers in the case.

V.—NEW TRIAL.

42. Because of perjury.—On proof of the perjury of any important witness of the prevailing party, upon a material point, affecting the decision of a suit, the Consul who tried it may, within a year after final judgment, grant a new trial on such terms as he may deem just.

43. Generally.—Within one year after final judgment in any suit not involving more than five hundred dollars, the Consul who tried it, or his successor, may, upon sufficient security, grant a new trial where justice manifestly requires it; if exceeding five hundred dollars, with the concurrence of the Minister.

VI.—HABEAS CORPUS.

44. Slaves not to be held.—No Consul shall recognize the claim of any American citizen arising out of a violation of the provision of the Act of Congress approved February 19th, 1862, relating to the "coolie trade" so called, nor any claim which involves the holding any person in slavery.

45. Habeas corpus.—Upon application of any person in writing and under oath, representing that he or any other person is enslaved, unlawfully imprisoned, or deprived of his liberty by any American citizen within the jurisdiction of a Consul, such Consul may issue his writ of Habeas Corpus, directing such citizen to bring said person, if in his custody or under his control, before him, and the question shall be determined summarily, subject to appeal.

VII.—DIVORCE.

46. Libels for divorce must be signed and sworn to before the Consul, and on the trial each party may testify.

47. Attachment.—The Consul, for good cause, may order the attachment of libeller's property to such an amount and on such terms as he may think proper.

48. Husband to advance money.—He may also, at his discretion, order the husband to advance his wife, or pay into court, a reasonable sum to enable her to prosecute or defend the libel, with a reasonable monthly allowance for her support pending the proceedings.

49. Alimony.—Alimony may be awarded or denied the wife on her divorce at his discretion.

50. Custody of the minor children may be decreed to such party as justice and the childrens' good may require.

51. Release of both.—Divorce releases both parties, and they shall not be re-married to each other.

52. Costs.—Costs are at the discretion of the Consul.

VIII.—MARRIAGE.

53. Record and return.—Each Consul shall record all marriages solemnized by him, or in his official presence.

IX.—BIRTHS AND DEATHS.

54. The birth and death of every American citizen within the limits of his jurisdiction shall likewise be recorded.

X.—BANKRUPTCY, PARTNERSHIP, PROBATE, &c.

55. Until promulgation of further regulations, Consuls will continue to exercise their former lawful jurisdiction and authority in bankruptcy, in matters involving probate of wills, administration of estates and other matters of equity, admiralty, ecclesiastical and common law, not especially provided for in previous decrees, according to such reasonable rules, not repugnant to the Constitution, treaties, and laws of the United States, as they may find necessary or convenient to adopt.

XI.—SEAMEN.

56. In proceedings or prosecutions instituted by or against American seamen, the Consul may, at his discretion, suspend any of these rules in favor of the seamen when, in his opinion, justice, humanity and public policy require it.

XII.—CRIMINAL PROCEEDINGS.

57. How commenced.—Complaints and informations against American citizens should always be signed and sworn to before the Consul when the complainant or informant is at or near the Consul's port.

58. How authenticated.—All complaints and informations not so signed and sworn to by a citizen of the United States, and all complaints and informations in capital cases, must be authenticated by the Consul's certificate of his knowledge or belief of the substantial truth of enough of the complaint or information to justify the arrest of the party charged.

59. Copy of accusation.—No citizen shall be arraigned for trial until the offence charged is distinctly made known to him by the Consul in respondent's own language. In cases of magnitude, and in all cases when demanded, an attested copy (or translation) of the complaint, information, or statement, authenticated by the Consul, shall be furnished him in his own language, as soon as may be, after his arrest.

60. Presence of accuser.—The personal presence of the accuser is indispensable throughout the trial.

61. May testify.—He shall be informed of his right to testify, and cautioned that if he chooses to offer himself as a witness, he must answer all questions that may be propounded by the Consul or his order, like any other witness.

62. American witnesses compelled to attend.—The government and the accused are equally entitled to compulsory process for witnesses within their jurisdiction; and if the Consul believes the accused to be unable to advance the fees, his necessary witnesses shall be summoned at the expense of the United States.

63. Fine and costs.—When punishment is by fine, costs may be included or remitted at the Consul's discretion. An alternative sentence of thirty days imprisonment shall take effect on non-payment of any part of the fine or costs adjudged in any criminal proceeding.

64. Any prisoner, before conviction, may be admitted to bail by the Consul who tries him, except in capital cases.

65. Capital cases.—No prisoner charged with a capital offense shall be admitted to bail where the proof is evident, or the presumption of his guilt great.

66. After conviction.—After conviction and appeal the prisoner may be admitted to bail only by the minister.

67. American bail.—Any citizen of the United States offering himself as bail, shall sign and swear, before the Consul, to a schedule of unincumbered property of a value at least double the amount of the required bail.

68. Foreign bail.—Any other proposed bail or security shall sign and swear before the Consul, to a similar schedule of unincumbered personal property within the local jurisdiction of the Consulate, or he may be required to deposit the amount in money or valuables with the Consul.

69. Two sureties.—Unless such sufficient citizen becomes bail, or such deposit is made, at least two sureties shall be required.

70. Surrender.—Any American bail may have leave of the Consul to surrender his principal on payment of all costs and expenses.

71. Prosecutor may be required to give security.—Any complainant, informant, or prosecutor, may be required to give security for all costs of the prosecution, including those of the accused; and every complainant, &c., not a citizen of the United States, shall be so required, unless, in the Consul's opinion, justice will be better promoted otherwise; and when such security is refused the prosecution shall abate.

72. Honorable acquittal.—When the innocence of the accused, both in law and in intention, is manifest, the Consul shall add to the usual judgment of acquittal, the word "honorably."

73. Costs.—In such case judgment may be given and execution issued summarily against any informer, complainant, or prosecutor, for the whole costs of the trial, including those of the accused, or for any part of either or both, if the proceeding appears to have been groundless and vexatious, originating in corrupt, malicious, or vindictive motives.

74. Minor offenses.—Consuls will ordinarily encourage the settlement of all prosecutions not of a heinous character by the parties aggrieved or concerned.

XIII.—OATHS.

75. Oath shall be administered in some language that the witness understands.

76. Not Christians.—A witness not a Christian shall be sworn according to his religious belief.

77. Atheist.—An avowed atheist shall not be sworn, but may affirm, under the pains and penalties of perjury; the credibility of his evidence being for the consideration of the Consul.

78. Affirmation.—A Christian conscientiously scrupulous of an oath, may affirm under the pains and penalties of perjury.

XIV.—DOCKETS, RECORDS, &c.

79. Civil docket.—Each Consul shall keep a regular docket or calendar of all civil actions and proceedings, entering each case separately, numbering consecutively, to the end of his term of office, with the date of filing, the names of the parties in full, their nationality, the nature of the proceeding, the sum or thing claimed, with minutes and dates of all orders, decrees, continuances, appeals and proceedings, until final judgment.

80. Criminal.—He shall keep another regular docket for all criminal cases, with sufficient similar memoranda.

81. Filing papers.—All original papers shall be filed at once and never removed; no person but an officer of the Consulate or Minister should be allowed access to them. All papers in a case must be kept together in one inclosure, and numbered as in the docket with the parties' names, the nature of the proceeding, the year of filing the petition and of final judgment conspicuously marked on the inclosure, and each year's cases kept by themselves in their order.

XV.—LIMITATION OF ACTIONS AND PROSECUTIONS.

82. Criminal.—Heinous offenses not capital, must be prosecuted within six years; minor offenses within one.

83. Civil.—Civil actions based on written promises, contract or instrument, must be commenced within six years after the cause of action accrues; others within two.

84. Absence; fraudulent concealment.—In prosecutions for heinous offenses not capital, and in civil cases involving more than $500, any absence of respondent or defendant for more than three months in the country shall be added to the limitation; and in civil cases involving more than $100, the period during which the cause of action may be fraudulently concealed by defendant, shall likewise be added.

XVI.—GENERAL PROVISIONS.

85. Trials public.—All trials and proceedings in the United States' Consular Courts in China shall be open and public.

86. Interpreting and translating.—Papers and testimony in a foreign language shall be translated into English by a sworn interpreter appointed by the Consul; in civil cases to be paid by petitioner. The oath and questions shall be translated by the interpreter from the English for any witness who does not understand English.

87. Testimony.—Parties may be required to file their petitions, answers, complaints, informations, and all other papers addressed to the court, in English; or they may be translated by the interpreter at the Consul's discretion. All testimony must be taken in writing in open court by the Consul or his order, and signed by the witness, after being read over to him for his approval and correction, and it shall form part of the papers in the case.

88. Adjournment.—The Consul may adjourn his court from time to time and place to place within his jurisdiction, always commencing proceedings and giving judgment at the Consulate.

89. Officer.—All processes not served by the Consul personally, must be executed by an officer of the Consulate, who shall sign his return, specifying the time and mode of service, and exacting an amount of his fees.

90. Copies on appeal.—On appeal, copies of all the papers must be paid for in advance by the appellant, except in criminal cases where respondent is unable to pay.

91. Copies.—Any person interested is entitled to a copy of any paper on file, on prepayment of the fee.

92. Reasonable clearness, precision, and certainty should be required in the papers; and substantial justice and all practicable dispatch is expected in the decisions.

93. Definition of Consul.—The word "Consul" is intended to include the Consul-general, and any Vice-Consul or Deputy-Consul, actually exercising the Consular power at any Consulate, unless the sense requires a more limited construction.

94. Associates.—Each associate in a Consular trial shall, before entering on his duties, be sworn by the Consul. Before taking the oath, he may be challenged by either party, and for sufficient cause excused and another drawn.

96. Attorney.—Every party to a civil or criminal proceeding may be heard in person, or by attorney of his choice, or by both; but the presence of counsel shall be under the exclusive control and discretion of the Consul.

E. H. PALLARD, Esq.

The Scheme of a Local Bank for this Colony with Branches at the most important places in China, has been in contemplation for a very long period.

The local and foreign trade in Hongkong and at the open ports in China and Japan has increased so rapidly within the last few years that additional Banking facilities are felt to be required.

The Banks now in China being only Branches of Corporations whose head quarters are in England or India, and which were formed chiefly with the view of carrying on exchange operations between those countries and China, are scarcely in a position to deal satisfactory with the local trade which has become so much more extensive and varied than in former years.

This deficiency the Hongkong and Shanghai Banking Company will supply, and will in fact assume the same position with relation to this Colony as the Presidency Banks in India, or the Banks of Australia in their respective localities.

The Establishment of a Mint in Hongkong, providing an adequate supply of proper currency, will render a local Banking medium essential to carry out its operations, and the almost certain disappearance of the existing Compradoric system (so far as money is concerned) will also ensure Banks becoming in course of time the exclusive medium for the transaction of the monetary operations connected with trade.

For the anticipated success of this enterprise there are therefore ample grounds; and the great prosperity which has attended the working of other local associations in China clearly shows that the largest profits are obtained by those Public Companies which possess an interested local body of Proprietors or Shareholders whose support naturally forms a chief element of remunerative success.

The Bank will commence operations simultaneously in Hongkong and Shanghai and as the importance of its business at the latter place must be very great, it is intended to establish a local Board of Directors there for more effectually meeting the work. As circumstances render it advisable the Bank will establish Branches at other places.

In the distribution of Shares, Hongkong and Shanghai will equally participate. Shares will also be reserved for the other ports in China and Japan and for persons residing elsewhere, who are directly interested in the China Trade.

Applications for Shares must be addressed until further notice, to the Provisional Committee, care of GABRIEL.

INVENTIONS AND PATENTS.

EACH year adds almost innumerably to the list of Inventors, and still more to that of Inventions which are increased by a most uncommon multiple. The fruitful ingenuity of thousands of intellects thus contributes to the comfort, convenience, and profit of the community, whilst of a necessity it also numbers the victims of too flattering hope, or of too sanguine a calculation. The list of Patents, active, passive, or neutral—vital or still-born,—productive or exhaustive, swells to enormous proportions, but never without more or less advantage from the faculties which it awakens or calls forth, if but for a brief interval into active play. Every invention confers some good upon the world. And those which tend to supply some great want, or to relieve some great inconvenience, deserve at our hands so much the more commendation, that they cannot be called into existence at our bidding. Amongst those patented inventions which have appeared to illustrate this eventful year, and to figure in the great International contest of ingenuity and industry, though many be more showily represented and more conspicuously marshalled before us, none meets with more personal sympathies than that of the new Osteo-Eidon produced by Messrs. GABRIEL, the celebrated Dentists of London, Liverpool, and Birmingham, (as it is evinced by their being the only dentists chosen on the Committee of the International Exhibition), whose admirable adaption of Artificial Teeth has obtained so high an approval from the profession as well as from the public. The Osteo-Eidon as a base for sets of teeth, obviates all objections applicable to other materials, and whilst firmly seated in the mouth, and free from noxious elements, dispenses with all need of mechanism, and presents an appearance not to be distinguished from that of the natural gums and teeth. Messrs. GABRIEL announce that they submit their laboratories and manufactures to gratuitous inspection during this season. As may be seen by reference to our advertising columns, Messrs Gabriel supply Artificial Teeth and Gums on their patented system, irrespective of distance.

ANY ONE CAN USE THEM.

CAUTION.

ELLWOOD'S PATENT AIR-CHAMBER HATS.

The Patentees having established the validity of their Patent, in an action tried on the 20th and 21st days of June instant, in the Court of Common Pleas at Westminster, before Lord Chief Justice Erle and a Special Jury, in which Ellwood and another of No 24, Great Charlotte Street, Blackfriars Road, in the Borough of Southwark, Wholesale Hat Manufacturers, were Plaintiffs; and Christy and others of No. 35, Gracechurch Street, in the City of London, also Wholesale Hat Manufacturers, were Defendants; and the Jury having by their Verdict found, that the above named Defendants had infringed the Plaintiffs' Patent, and that the Invention was new in England and in India, at the date of the Letter Patent. We, the above named Plaintiffs, do hereby give notice to all Manufacturers, Dealers in, and Sellers of Hats, Caps, or Helmets, that we shall proceed by suit in Chancery, against all persons so manufacturing, dealing in, or selling Hats, Caps, or Helmets, constructed on the principle of "ELLWOOD'S PATENT AIR-CHAMBER HAT;" unless the previous consent of the Patentees be obtained, at the same time reserving to ourselves the right of taking proceedings against prior Infringers.

Dated this 24th day of June, 1864.

CAUTION.—No Air-Chamber Hats or Helmets are genuine unless they bear the above stamp, with either Ellwood and Son's, or the seller's name in the shield.

From "The Times and Daily Papers," June 21st and 22nd, 1864.

INFRINGEMENT OF PATENTS.

COURT OF COMMON PLEAS,

WESTMINSTER, JUNE 20TH AND 21ST.

(Sittings at Nisi Prius, at Westminster, before the Lord Chief Justice ERLE and a Special Jury.)

ELLWOOD AND ANOTHER v. CHRISTY AND OTHERS.

Mr. Hindmarsh, Mr. Webster, and Mr. T. Ashton were counsel for the plaintiffs; and Mr Bovill, Sir G. Honyman, and Mr. Murray for the defendants.

This was an action for the infringement of a patent for a double ventilating solar hat made for India, of which the plaintiff was the assignee.

The plaintiffs are hat manufacturers in Great Charlotte-street, Blackfriars-road, and the defendants are in the same way of business in Gracechurch-street. The invention was thus described in the specification of the patent:—"Each hat is composed of two parts, leaving a space or chamber between them, so that in hot climates the heat of the sun acting on the exterior of a hat shall not pass to the head of the wearer, but be greatly modified by the non-conducting properties of the air in the space or chamber. This space may be either closed, or it may have passages for air to enter and also to pass away."

The defendants pleaded "Not guilty," traversed that the plaintiff was assignee, and alleged that the invention was not new.

The jury, after considering the matter for an hour and a half, found that the defendants had infringed the plaintiffs' patent, and that the principle of the patent was new in 1851, both in England and in India.

Verdict for the plaintiffs.
